• A Biography of Arys •

This biography is based upon an interview with Arys in September of 2006, in the park beside the Bells of PaxLair.
  The afternoon was quiet, but stirring... A breeze swam around every corner, every fence post, every blade of grass, as though the very wind were alive with thought and passion. Arys began by sitting still for several long moments, merely listening to the wind. This woman portrays a certain esoteric outlook, a very refined perception. She asked for a moment to listen to the wind, saying that it helps her to remember things.

  'The wind is calm. Very nice. I've listened here for years. I have lived off the land.' As she said this, she stood and knelt to lift some spiders' silk from the ground and stow it away. I softly interjected to see if she might
